

Fuleh's Village Massacre

On January 29, 1953, a reinforced platoon of about 120 to 130 soldiers attacked the village of Fuleh Al-Arabiya in the West Bank. The village was bombarded with mortar fire, resulting in the destruction of some houses and causing nine Arab residents to be martyred, along with more than twenty others who were injured.